PREAMBLE

Whereas, In view of the fearfully-hazardous nature of our vocation, the premature old age and many ills, the result of our unnatural toil; and whereas, a Society, which would enable the Miner to be his own benefactor, would also relieve the Corporations on the Comstock; and whereas, it is profitable to retain skilled and experienced labor when its demand is significant in proportion to the benefit to be derived from it; and, whereas, we should cultivate an acquaintance with our fellows, in order that we may be the better enabled to form an undivided opposition to acts of injustice: Therefore, we, the Miners of Virginia, have resolved to form an Association for the promotion and protection of our common interests, and have adopted the annexed Constitution and By-laws for its guidance; for united we possess strength. Let us, then act justly and fear not.
